Welcome to Ulaanbaatar

Brief introduction

Thank you for starting your journey from the capital and largest city of Mongolia, Ulaanbaatar. Founded as Urguu (Urga) in the year of 1639, it changed location twenty-nine times and was given five different names in its history.

The traditional city, full of Buddhist monasteries, temples and Mongolian gers, expanded about 300 years ago and has now developed into a modern metropolis with numerous skyscrapers, wide streets and squares, as well as comfortable apartments. Ulaanbaatar, which was a Buddhist monastic center, grew into a major center of culture, education, economy and politics. Development, change and movement still continue - new buildings are constructed, new businesses start up anywhere in the capital and nomads come to the city to live as citizens.

Since Ulaanbaatar is surrounded by sacred mountains, namely Bayanzurkh, Bogd Khan, Songinokhairkhan and Chingeltei, on its four sides, you can see the beauty of nature covered by forest and inhabited by wild animals from just several kilometers away from the city center. We encourage you to visit national parks with green facilities, as well as the Tuul and Selbe Rivers, running through the city during summertime. These activities will give you some rest from the busy metropolitan life. If you want to improve your mood, then the places you must go are the galleries, museums, theatres and clubs. We feel confident that you, the tourist, will be impressed with our traditional nomadic culture featuring Mongolian gers, drinks and cuisines, monasteries and temples, craftsmanship and music, besides the modern buildings and urban lifestyle.

ULAANBAATAR IS UNVEILING ITS BEAUTY,
CULTURE, HIDDEN TALENT AND WISDOM TO YOU.
PLEASE, SEIZE THIS OPPORTUNITY.

History

- The city of Ulaanbaatar was first established as a movable monastery when the first Jebtsundamba Khutuktu, G.Zanabazar, was declared as spiritual leader of Khalkha Mongols by convocation of nobles in the year of 1639.
- Seven aimags (monastic departments) were founded in 1651 in Urga, which laid the foundation for the 30 aimags established afterwards.
- Khalkha Mongols surrendered to Manchu in 1691.

- The city was set up as a permanent religious center named Ikh Khuree with the restoration of Bat Tsagaan temple in 1706.
- Ikh Khuree moved to various locations 21 times during 1719-1778.
- Ikh Khuree made its permanent home in the Altan Tevsh (Golden Plate) Valley between four sacred mountains in 1778.
- In 1838, the Gandantegchinlen Monastery was built in Ikh Khuree, establishing the residence for Buddhist monks.

- Upon independence in 1911, with both the secular government and the Bogd Khaan's kingdom present, the city's name changed to Niislel Khüree ("Capital Camp") and it became the political center of Mongolia.
- Ikh Khuree was re-established as Niislel Khuree in 1912 upon the decree of the 8th Jebtsundamba Khutuktu
- The People's Revolution of 1921 took place in Niislel Khuree.
- Bogd Khaan passed away in 1924.

- The authoritarian government of People's Republic of Mongolia resigned in 1990 and the present-day democratic Mongolia was established (since 1992).
- According to the 2004 Land Law of Mongolia, every citizen of Mongolia is legally entitled to own a plot of land. As a result, people began to have lands and private properties.
- Ulaanbaatar reached a population of 1 million in 2007.

- The municipality was formed in 1921 and Moonongyn Bayar was appointed as the first mayor of the capital.
- In November 1924, Niislel Khuree was renamed Ulaanbaatar ("Red hero"). In addition, the First Constitution was enacted and the People's Republic of Mongolia was established.
- The equestrian statue in honor of Damdin Sukhbaatar, one of the leaders of the People's Revolution, was erected in the central square in 1946. This square was named Sukhbaatar Square.
- The first comprehensive plan on developing the city of Ulaanbaatar was approved in 1954.
- The first khoroolol (microdistrict) of apartment buildings in Ulaanbaatar was built in 1961.

History of the Ulaanbaatar

Back when Chinggis Khan was uniting the Mongols, and stories of his warriors caused tremors of fear across the continent, the capital of Mongolia was called Khar Khorum (Karakorum). The remains of the city lie in Kharkhorin soum, Uvurkhangai Province. The current capital, Ulaanbaatar, took root in 1639. At that time, the Mongol warriors had grown tired of their endless military conquests, gave up their weapons and sought peace, which led to the widespread popularity of Buddhism in Mongolia. Since that time, until the People's Revolution, Mongolia was ruled by the dignitaries of the Yellow Hat Sect of Buddhism, who oversaw both religious and state affairs. Ikh Khuree (Mongolia's capital from 1691-1778) made its permanent home in the Altan Tevsh (Golden Plate) Valley, which was declared the center of the Yellow Hat Sect. The city was expanded to the point where a change of location was not feasible, and the Ulaanbaatar of today was first formed between four sacred mountains.

Origins of Ulaanbaatar

On October 29, 2019, the capital celebrated its 380th anniversary. If you are curious about what the city looked like before the emergence of socialist apartment blocks and modern high-rises, you may want to pay a visit to one of the few remaining monasteries in the city. The painting "Niislel Khuree" (which was the given name of the capital from 1912-1924) by Jugder, is kept at the Bogd Khaan Palace Museum and will give you a more vivid understanding of the evolution of Ulaanbaatar. Dating back to the early 1900s, this is the only painting still in existence that provides accurate information about the layout, organization, appearance, and lifestyle of the capital at that time. The magnificence of the Yellow Palace, White Palace, Green Palace, and their adjacent monasteries devoted to Bogd Khaan, who was the head of state and religious affairs in the early 20th century, demonstrate the characteristics of the era. Also depicted in the painting are ordinary citizens, who are circling the Bogd Khaan's Palace and prostrating, in accordance with religious tradition. The painting is strong evidence of the religious affiliations of Mongolians during that time.

Palace of the Last Emperor

Jugder's painting also exhibits the authority vested in the Bogd Khaan, who was enthroned to oversee religion and the state. The specially protected area in which he lived was referred to as the "Area of Egg Herd", because of its off-limit status for ordinary citizens and highly protected natural habitat. The area is now surrounded by high-end residential properties.

The stretch between the Tuul River and Dund River housed three large palaces belonging to the Bogd Khan. The palaces and surrounding monasteries of the Last Emperor of Mongolia were not only filled with religious artifacts and valuable treasures, but also housed exotic animals and birds, such as an elephant, monkeys, foreign breeds of cattle, and rare domestic dog breeds. "Niislel Khuree" distinctly features the Bogd Khaan Zoo, where the animals were kept. Located east of the Green Palace, the zoo was called Norovlin, and is considered to be the first zoo in Mongolia. You can see a collection of taxidermy of the exotic animals kept by Bogd Khaan in his palace museum.

The City's Commercial District

Colorful monasteries were not the only attractions in the early capital, as it also housed commercial districts where people exchanged news and fascinating goods. "Niislel Khuree" shows merchants who are transporting goods on poles and by horse-drawn carriages from Maimaa, a town settled by Chinese traders. You can see many people coming in and out of the marketplace on horses or camels. The painting's intricate details make the history of Ulaanbaatar even more interesting. Although the city's modern marketplaces are very different from their predecessors, they still remain some of the most popular places for Mongolians to visit, who are naturally very curious.

Historical Landmarks of the Capital

Jugder's painting also reflects landmarks that still remain standing, such as the Green Palace of the Bogd Khaan, and buildings constructed on top of the "Konsul" hills, all maintaining their original structure and appearance. We encourage you to enrich your travel experience by visiting the Bogd Khaan Palace Museum to see the painting in person, and to learn about the old capital and compare it to its modern incarnation. The rich history of Ulaanbaatar hides many exciting treasures. This guidebook will share some of those with you.

May your experience in Ulaanbaatar be fun, exciting, comfortable, and memorable!

TEMPLES AND MONASTERIES

Ulaanbaatar city this year is celebrating its 380th anniversary and the first Bogd Jebtsundamba Khutuktu, the decision to settle in the golden trough valley and establish temples and monasteries in combining religious and state functions. Today, few of the remaining Mongolian Buddhist traditions and cultural heritage is present.

Gandantegchinlen Monastery

The largest and most significant monastery of Mongolia resides among a ger (Mongolian traditional dwelling) district. It's easy to visit from the south as Megjidjanraisag (Avalokitesvara) temple will guide you from afar. It has the tallest indoor statue in the world at 26.5 meters high. Do check out the wish tree, the biggest Buddhist library, and the religious schools to understand the general idea of Buddhism in Mongolia.

If you're searching for an Insta spot, Gandantegchinlen Monastery is the place. Its buildings and colors are beautiful on photos.

Dashchoilin temple

This temple is closely related with the capital's history. At the beginning of the 20th century, it was part of the former capital Ikh Khuree. During the Great Depression, the temple was destroyed or used as warehouses, circuses and for other purposes. However, in 1990 it was restored. Be sure to visit the temple in the mornings, when it's busy with traditional rituals and orders. After lunch it will become very quite and peaceful.

Dolma Ling Nunnery is the only one of its kind, established to train female lamas. The nunnery was originally built 230 years ago as an exquisite monastery, a gift from the emperor of the Qing dynasty. It had fifteen monumental three-story walls with very fine workmanship; however, it was greatly damaged in the 1930s when many of Mongolia's monasteries were destroyed. In the yard of the monastery there is an eleven-foot-tall collection of carved columns with animal and ornamental designs.

EVENTS &
FESTIVALS

گەنجا گەنجا گەنجا گەنجا

EVENTS

Ulaanbaatar strives to welcome its visitors throughout the year with special and unforgettable experiences that inspire and educate about its rich culture and history.

LUNAR NEW YEAR

Mongolian Lunar New Year, commonly known as Tsagaan Sar (White Moon), is the biggest festival of the country, dating back to 1206. Its actual date varies, but is usually celebrated on the first through the third days of the first lunar month. This is the most important family holiday of the year and is akin to Christmas, where families come together. If you ever visit Mongolia during this time, we highly recommend that you visit a local family. The family will greet you with the best of wishes and will invite you to their jolly table filled with buuz (dumplings) and mutton stew accompanied by various dairy appetizers and small delectable side dishes. They will never forget to give you a gift on your way out.

ULAANBAATAR WINTER FESTIVAL

On the first Sunday of February, you can experience a traditional ankle bone shooting game on ice, an ice archery tournament, speed skating and figure skating shows, winter bike trips, dog sledding races, traditional clothing fashion shows, ethnic and modern band concerts, and horse and camel tours. All these and more during the Ulaanbaatar Winter Festival.

THE GOLDEN EAGLE FESTIVAL

The Eagle Festival, a traditional Kazakh holiday, is organized not very far from the capital. During this festival, Kazakh men are all dressed up in their traditional clothes, and introduce guests to their culture of eagle hunting. While getting acquainted with the Kazakh culture, don't forget to have your photo taken with an authentic hunting eagle sitting on your arm.

THOUSAND CAMEL FESTIVAL

The Thousand Camel Festival is organized in the Gobi Desert aimed to protect and preserve the Bactrian camel population. The main events include camel polo, parade of camel riders, performances by traditional Mongolian musicians and dancers, and best dressed couple competition. Enrich your experience by also visiting significant paleontological and cultural sites of the Gobi.

BOGDKHAN MOUNTAIN TRAIL

The Bogdkhan mountain trail is a University of Texas Medical Branch qualifying race! Finishers can get three International Trail Running Association points for the completion of the 64km trail run. The winner of 64km trail run can get 500 points from the Asia Trail Master Championship organization. Also we invite you to take part in the Barefoot Run! www.bmtrail.run

LIGHT STREET

As the country approach the summer season, thousands of UB residents and tourists gather on Seoul street which is the first car-free and nightlight street of Ulaanbaatar. Various entertainment events and shows are held every weekend. You can enjoy salsa, kizomba, bachata, flash mob events, rap battles and cover song competitions, as well as participate in these activities. You may as well enjoy a handful of food selections throughout the street as different food trucks line up to cater to you.

ULAANBAATAR MARATHON

The International Marathon which takes place on the third Saturday of every May, brings together athletes from various countries. It allows both experienced and inexperienced runners to compete in their own age and distance categories. The race begins and ends at the Sukhbaatar Square after traversing an exciting and challenging track. The marathon aims not only to promote the city of Ulaanbaatar, but more to encourage running as a sport.

STEPPE WIND

The Steppe Wind International Moto Festival appeals to those who seek adventurous challenges, as well as new outdoor experiences outside of one's comfort zones. Adventuring from the Mongolian Gobi to the nation's capital, Ulaanbaatar, and meeting fellow travelers and riders along the way is a much-anticipated event. Since 2014, the Steppe Wind Festival has expanded its venue from a local annual event to by conducting different kinds of activities and forums.

SILENCE WHITE

Every year, youth of the big city, dressed in all white, dance through an entire night to the music of Mongolia's best DJs. Initiated by Mongol Mix Project, LLC, in 2006, the Silence White dance event is organized with the aim of promoting Peace, Freedom and Unity. Now this festival is one of the biggest electro music dance events in Mongolia. Each year more than 20,000 young music lovers attend this dance movement. A unique stage, powerful lighting system, special effects, and fireworks electrify the night.

PLAYTIME LIVE MUSIC FESTIVAL

Each summer Play Time music festival takes place in the natural scenic Gachuurt village in Hotel Mongolia, which is 30 km away from Ulaanbaatar. This festival is one of the most anticipated live music events in Mongolia, attracting thousands of music lovers both from Mongolia and abroad. The festival has several sets and stages to perform indie rock, instrumental, metal, electronic and house music. The main stage showcases the headliners while the New Wave showcases upcoming new music groups. In addition to music and other performances, the Replay Art Market is open for public.

“MONGOLIAN NATIONAL COSTUME” FESTIVAL

Many events are held during the Naadam festival, which are noteworthy both in size and meaning, making the festival a big celebration with something for everyone to attend and enjoy together. A very festive parade of Mongolian National Costumes worn by both locals and tourists will give you a peek into the rich culture of Mongolia. The festival is held at the Sukhbaatar Square on July 10 with more than ten thousand tourists and visitors attending this parade every year. You may also enjoy traditional artistic performances that are shown to public.

NAADAM FESTIVAL

One cannot fully enjoy or know Mongolia without experiencing the Naadam festival, which has been celebrated for centuries. The Naadam tradition is truly ancient in its origins, backdating perhaps by millennia to the rise of Chinggis Khaan (Genghis Khaan) in the early Thirteenth Century. Naadam can be equated to the original Olympic Games of ancient Greece. It is organized every year at the National Sports stadium to celebrate the national independence. The festival is also locally referred to as the “Three Manly Games”. These games include traditional wrestling, horse racing, and archery, where the latter two sports allow the participation of women and children.

DANSHIG NAADAM

"Danshig Naadam Khuree Tsam" is part of the nation's biggest religious and cultural festival. The Danshig Naadam festival is organizing on the first week of every August. It represents religious importance and Buddhism's influence on the people and culture of Mongolia. In addition to the variety of Buddhist rituals, spectators can enjoy many competitions and spiritual debates among monks.

MONGOLIAN STEPPE INTERNATIONAL MARATHON

The 23th Mongolian Steppe International Marathon, initiated by Japanese citizens Fujawara and KonAya in 1996, will be held on 8th of September at Khui Doloon khudag. Traditionally, athletes run in junior, senior and master categories with distances of 3, 5, 10 and 21 kilometers. While running alongside country under the blue sky you will encounter livestock such as goats, sheep, horses, camels and cows. For runners who love nature, it is a "must attend" event. Participants from Japan, China, Russia, South Korea and other countries are increasing every year. Run along the prairie with your family and friends, and let's establish international exchange!

ULAANBAATAR INTERNATIONAL FILM FESTIVAL

Ulaanbaatar International film festival is organized in October annually by The Arts Council of Mongolia. The festival has main four main components which are International Film Program, French Movie Nights, Mongolian Movies and The Ulaanbaatar International Film Forum. Most of the festival entries are internationally acclaimed and the festival organizers enable artists to share their ideas about films.

STEPPE HORSES WINTER FESTIVAL

The annual “Steppe Horses of Mongolia” winter festival will be held in a location not far from Ulaanbaatar this November. Hundreds of horses are gathered at one location, creating spectacular scenery where the herders show their skills in catching and taming the horses.

“SILVER NIGHT OF ULAANBAATAR” NEW YEAR CELEBRATION

“The people of Ulaanbaatar gather at Sukhbaatar Square on the night of December 31st and welcome the New Year while enjoying a cultural event, watching fireworks, and having champagne together. Father Frost, with a light-blue cape, give gifts to children in Mongolia, whereas in the West, kids send letters to Santa Claus.” –Val Farmer, U.S. traveler

SKY RESORT SEASON OPENING

ᠶ᠋ᠢᠨᠨᠠᠭᠤᠨ
ᠶ᠋ᠢᠨᠨᠠᠭᠤᠨ

MONGOLIAN CUISINE

Mongolian traditional drinks and foods are deeply tied to the extreme climate conditions, nomadic culture and animal husbandry back over a thousand years. Influenced by modern urban lifestyle, the culture associated with traditional foods and drinks has changed. However, you can still see the overall nomadic style that still dominates. For instance, Mongolians mostly consume beef, mutton, flour and rice daily. During winter, horse meat is consumed in addition to beef and mutton. During the summertime, typical food is consisted are dried meat known as "borts" and dairy products. Vegetables and fruits are popular items in autumn. Milk tea is a traditional Mongolian drink. In particular, dairy products can be served as foods, drinks and even snacks (a more modern invention).

DAIRY PRODUCTS

Dairy products are sacred in Mongolia. Over the years, Mongolian nomads have developed a great number of unique dairy products to last long.

Dairy products as food

aaruul, eezgii, byaslag, urum, zoothii and tsutsugii etc.

Dairy products as drinks:

milk, eedem, airag, tarag, aarts, khoormog and distilled milk vodka etc.

Milk

The main raw material for dairy products is milk from cow, sheep, goat, mare and a female camel. Milk is the base of various dairy products and drinks and is even consumed for medical purposes.

Zoothii

(cream)

Zoothii is a dairy product composed of the higher-butterfat layer skimmed from the top of milk before homogenization.

Urum

(clotted cream)

Urum is produced by bringing cow, sheep or goat milk to a boil while continuously ladling up the liquid and pouring it back into the pot, causing the cream to separate from the milk and develop into froth. The pot is then set aside in a cool place until this foam solidifies.

Aarts

(curds)

Curds obtained by pouring boiled yoghurt or tsagaa into a cloth sack and leaving it until the whey has dripped away.

Aaruul

(dry curds)

Aaruul is produced by cutting drained Aarts with a string, then setting them to dry in the sun. In order to increase the flavor, texture and fat content of the Aaruul, extra milk can be added to the tsagaa before it is boiled and filtered. Some of the popular aaruuls include milk khuruud, khorkhoi aaruul, sweet and non-sweet aaruuls.

raw milk. The milk is heated over a gentle fire, and then a curdling agent such as whey or yoghurt is added gradually to the milk, causing it to separate.

meat cut into long strips.

Airag

(fermented mare's milk)

Airag is a fermented dairy product traditionally made from mare's milk. Airag is considered as traditional light alcoholic drink or "beer".

Shimiin arkhi

(distilled milk vodka)

Distilled milk vodka is a traditional Mongolian vodka made from milk, usually about 20% ABV. As it comes from dairy, the taste and aroma are almost blank, compared to wheat vodka.

Cedar nut

Mongolians like to have a taste of delicious cedar nuts. You can find packs of cedar nuts at shops and supermarkets in addition to outdoor stands. Fresh cedar nuts mature fully in the autumn.

Eezgii

(dried mass of cheese)

Eezgii is made by cooking milk and adding a little yoghurt. After curdling, the substance is kept cooking until all liquid is gone. After, the dried mass is roasted until it turns into small, golden-colored pieces. The final product is dry enough to be stored in a sack of cloth.

Wild fruits

Blackberry, cowberry, hawthorn, black cherry, blueberry, sea buckthorn, blackcurrant, strawberry and redcurrant etc.

Tea

Milk tea, non-milk tea, simple rice tea and tea with "borts" etc.

Byaslag

Cheese is produced with

Borts

Borts is an air-dried

DISHES

Tsuivan

Tsuivan is a Mongolian noodle dish that includes meat, fried noodles and vegetables.

Khuushuur

Khuushuur is a kind of meat pastry or fried dumpling. It includes meat (either beef or mutton) mince, onion, salt and other spices. While eaten daily, khuushuur is also the main dish for the Naadam Festival.

Buuz

Buuz is a type of steamed dumpling filled with meat mince. The cuisine is traditionally eaten at home on Tsagaan Sar, the Mongolian Lunar New Year.

Bantan

Bantan is a Mongolian dish with a low fat content. It is a soup with flour lumps and small cut meat. It is given to small children as their first solid food.

Khorkhog

Khorkhog is a barbecue dish in Mongolian cuisine. Khorkhog is made by cooking pieces of meat inside a container which contains hot stones and water and which is often also heated from the outside. Khorkhog is traditionally eaten during trips and outdoor gatherings.

Banquet

(foods and cuisines)

Mongolians prepare ceremonial foods and drinks during the traditional holidays including Tsagaan Sar, Naadam, first haircut ceremony and old age feast. The banquet includes a plate of traditional large cookies (kheviin boov), a cooked sheep's back and tail (uuts) and a variety of dairy products.

A pyramid of traditional large cookies (usually 5, 7 or 9 levels) is assembled on a large dish. Kheviin boov (Ul Boov) are traditional cookies stamped in the form of a shoe sole.

Uuts is cooked sheep back and tail. Mongolians try to cook a sheep with as big a tail as possible, a symbol of family wealth and prosperity.

"KHUKH-UUR TOUR" LLC

"Khukh-Uur Tour" LLC was established in 2016 in the field of catering, tourism and restaurants. In 2017, we opened the Khukh-Uur Airag & Restaurant, which offers traditional Mongolian food and drink Airag in all four seasons of the year.

In 2017, we built our first restaurant with our own funds.

In 2018, we opened a second branch on the 1st floor of the City Center on the east side of Sukhbaatar Square. The industry was the first attempt to turn a cafeteria into a restaurant.

In the 4th quarter of 2018, the 1st branch was transferred to the Mandukhai Hotel, which has tripled its capacity to a total of 60 seats and is still operating successfully.

Also, since 2019, "Khukhuuriin airag" and since 2020, "Terigun" airag project have been initiated and successfully implemented.

"KHUKH-UUR AIRAG ZOOG" RESTAURANT

"Khukh-Uur Airag Zoog" restaurant differs from other restaurants in that it prepares raw materials from the initial preparation to the final product, so it has an additional preparation workshop. As for the food, it is served with Mongolian national food and dairy products.

Mongolian national dishes, food and beverages are traditionally processed and delivered to consumers fresh without any flavors or side dishes. Traditional methods are best suited for the processing and storage of food in a healthy and high quality

Our main product is AIRAG. We supply the best airag in Mongolia from Saikhan and Mogod soums of Bulgan aimag. In addition, it produces many products such as vodka, curd, wild fruit juice, milk tea and curd juice. We also serve liquid products such as white vodka, beer and soft drinks.

In 2021, we renewed our business model and became a franchise restaurant. In doing so, it redesigned the look and style of the restaurant. When redesigning a restaurant, we have three main goals: to create our own unique style, to ensure the comfort of the customers, and to create an atmosphere for the activities that take place among the customers.

Each part of the environment has a national character, and tables and chairs allow you to play the national game without any obstacles.

The stage section is especially important as "Khukh Uur Airag & Zoog" restaurant regularly organizes various events. In addition to being unique, each unit of the hall is unique in that it allows you to see the stage without any obstacles. There are also terraces on the outside and VIP rooms on the inside, allowing customers to choose according to the specifics of the time.

Airag (Ayrag) is the traditional Mongolian fermented milk drink. This is the mildly alcoholic drink.

As the traditional national beverage of Mongolia you cannot miss it while traveling to the country. For many people outside of Mongolia, Airag is better known as KUMIS, which is the name given to all fermented mare's milk beverages throughout Central Asia.

Airag usually has up to only 2% alcohol and has a slightly sour, yet delicious taste that's agreeable to most people. The exact taste varies a bit, depending on the method of production.

It's one of the few alcoholic beverages in the world that's also a potent source of vitamins and minerals.

1 liter of fermented milk contains 0.3-0.4 mg of vitamin A, 95-100 mg of vitamin C and 100-200 mg of ascorbic acid. Fermented milk is a product rich in vitamin D. Breeding vitamin E is 0.65-1.05 mg per liter of milk. Fermented milk contains B vitamins. About 2% of fermented milk is protein.

Fermented milk is superior to cow's milk in minerals such as calcium, phosphorus and cobalt.

We produce 5 liters and 1 liter of fermented milk drink for ordinary consumption and 1 liter limited edition for luxury consumption.

About us

Our restaurant has been operating since December 2013, and "Bosco verde" is an Italian word meaning "green grove".

It is the first Italian national vegan restaurant in Mongolia and aims to promote vegetarian, healthy, safe and compassionate food by making traditional European and Italian dishes with plant-based non-animal foods.

For those who choose a vegan lifestyle and follow a healthy and balanced diet, they can make their meals from non-animal, plant-based foods and eat their usual foods (lasagna, risotto, pizza, burgers, schnitzel, etc.) as vegan. The goal is to realize that.

Bosco verde restaurant has a modern Italian and European style, the interior is decorated with exquisite souvenirs, the main hall with 40 seats, the VIP room is decorated to your taste and comfort, and if you are a business person, you can visit any part of our restaurant. High speed wireless internet (WiFi) service is available.

The VIP room in our restaurant is waiting for you with a perfect environment, excellent service and positive warm energy, which is designed for business, family and friends to meet and have a warm meal with your loved ones.

You are welcome

CITY TOUR

Улаанбаатар

RECOMMENDED 7-DAY ITINERARY

Ulaanbaatar is a colorful nomadic city filled with unique and wonderful sites to see and experience. This 7-day itinerary includes many must-see attractions in Ulaanbaatar. You can follow the whole itinerary, or just choose parts of it.

DAY 1

Turtle complex raised for the 355th anniversary of the capital Ulaanbaatar

Ulaanbaatar is a city of nomads. In 1778, in order to symbolically declare the establishment of the capital, Mongolians built stone figures in Human Stone Hollows, which was located near the present-day central square. In 1994, a tortoise limestone monument was built at the center of the former Human Stone Hollows for the 355th anniversary of the capital.

D.Sukhbaatar Square or Central Square

Mongolia's revolutionaries established Central Square of Ulaanbaatar in 1921.

/See also Chinggis Khaan monument complex, State Academic Theatre of Opera and Ballet, Mongolian Stock Exchange, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, National University of Mongolia and National Library of Mongolia/

Photographers in the Square

Some of the photographers found in the square have been providing photo service for more than 20 years. They will have your photos developed within 5-10 minutes.

Mongolian Statehood History Museum

This museum showcases Mongolia's diplomatic relations. Furthermore, 289 out of 612 objects in from Mongolia are listed as priceless cultural, historical and/or archaeological are kept at the museum.

Chinggis Khan Statue Complex

How can one not visit the highest equestrian statue in the world, the Chinggis Khan Statue Complex? This may be the way to prove that you came to the home of Chinggis Khan, a man of the millennium. This is a 40-metre tall statue of Chinggis Khan on horseback, situated on the bank of the Tuul River. The museum and exhibition hall dedicated to Chinggis Khan and the conquest of the 13th century are located on the base of the statue. Visitors can walk to the head of the horse through its chest and neck, where they have a panoramic view.

STATUES AND MONUMENTS

Sukhbaatar statue

D. Sukhbaatar was one of the leaders of the Mongolian People's Revolution of 1921 and commander-in-chief of the Mongolian People's Partisans. In addition to the Sukhbaatar Statue, the Mongolian bank note of 100 MNT (tugrik) features an image of Sukhbaatar and the district of Ulaanbaatar named after him. As you see, D. Sukhbaatar is depicted on horseback, raising his right hand and making a speech for his army. The Sukhbaatar Statue was the first modern statue built by a Mongolian, and we strongly advise you to visit there.

Chinggis Khaan Complex

This complex was built in 2006 on the occasion of the 800th anniversary of Great Mongolian Empire. The equestrian statue of Chinggis Khan stands at the center of the complex. His successors Ogedei Khan and Kublai Khan are at right and left wings of the complex, respectively. The equestrian statue of Mukhulai, a trusted and esteemed commander under Chinggis Khan stands at southeastern side; meanwhile, the equestrian statue of Bo'orchu, one of the first and most loyal friends of Chinggis Khan, is at southwestern side. The forty five steps to the Chinggis Khan statue symbolizes the age of 45, when Temujin was proclaimed "Chinggis Khaan". Aside from the statues, you can also enjoy paintings made of glass (glass art) on the façade of the Government palace.

Russian Memorial at Zaisan

Russian Memorial is located at the top of a mountain where you are rewarded with a panoramic view of the whole capital. On the 50th anniversary of the Revolution, in honor of the Soviet soldiers, a Russian memorial was built on Zaisan Hill. You can see a long fresco in memory of the friendship between USSR and Mongolia. You can also see the monument of a Soviet soldier, 22m diameter round walls symbolizing Mongolian traditional hearth, cups symbolizing eternal flame and a gathering area. Outside the round walls, there are orders and medals dating back to the People's Republic of Mongolia and the Soviet Union. Inside the round walls, a mosaic represents the friendship between Soviet and Mongolian people.

Turtle complex in Human Stone Hollows

The current location of Ulaanbaatar is called “Human Stone Hollows”. As a declaration of settlement of Ulaanbaatar (known as Ikh Khuree in 1778) in Altan Tevsh valley, which is surrounded by four sacred mountains, Mongolians built stone figures in Human Stone Hollows. In 1994, a limestone monument in the shape of a tortoise was built at the center of the former Human Stone Hollows. The turtle is worshipped as a symbol of peace and longevity.

Statue for the Victims of Political Persecution

During the Stalinist repressions in Mongolia, thousands of individuals were persecuted and organizations were perceived as threats to the Mongolian revolution and the Soviet influence in the country. Thus, this statue depicts political persecution, particularly a man escaping darkness and seeking for the bright future. The statue is also the first modernist-style statue built in Ulaanbaatar since 1990.

TANGIBLE CULTURAL HERITAGES

Center for Childhood Creativity

Center for Childhood Creativity was initially named "Pioneer Palace" and was established in 1958 using construction scheme of Pioneer Palace in Russia, built in 1957. The construction scheme of the building made by architect I.P.Antipov was reused many times and there are many buildings in Russia that are similar to the Pioneer Palace. The castle on top of Pioneer Palace in Mongolia was replaced by Mongolian pioneer badge. This is a good example of how new elements can be integrated in to classical architecture. Interior design work was done by Mongolian artists and craftsmen.

OFFICIAL TAXI SERVICE

"Ulaanbaatar Taxi Transport Service" LLC, established in October 2010 to conduct public taxi transport services in the capital Ulaanbaatar city, works under a motto "Ulaanbaatar taxi, beginning of the road to step forward". "UBTTS" LLC is a legal entity with 100 percent domestic investment, providing its services to customers via the widest network of taxis in Ulaanbaatar city. Within the scope of our activities, we imported 800 HYUNDAI ELANTRA model vehicles, manufactured in December 2010 by the HYUNDAI MOTORS Company, South Korea. Our main goal is to provide you loyal, faithful and polite service, matching your satisfaction. We're a leading company in the industry, conducting our activities with an information and inquiry center and a 24-hour call center (+976 1900 1991), based on the latest technology. We own approximately 400 taxis car park, which meets with full scope of standard taxi services and international standards.

EXECUTED PROJECTS

Executed projects

In October 2017, we fully equipped approximately 300 cars to meet taxi service standards in order to build the largest taxi park in Mongolia.

We started utilization of a taxi order and information inquiry "1900-1991" center. Every month about 120,000 customers, 1,500,000 a year, contact the phone number and we work with our full capacity to receive all of the calls.

We have been successfully conducting a smart "TAXICALLER SYSTEM" to order a taxi, which meets the international standards, since introduced in 2015.

We offer our customers, to make everything All Right.

BUS

Buses are the main source of public transportation in the city. These buses only accept special cards. The card is sold at some of the bus stops, at grocery stores and at newspaper stands, where they have the U-Money sign. However, there might be a language barrier when you try to buy them from these sites, so we advise you to head to U-Money's official office on the 3rd floor of Ulaanbaatar City Bank.

Tariffs

Smart card – MNT 3600

Single trip – MNT 500

The fee is a flat rate of MNT 500 – that is, the price will be the same regardless of distance between destinations. When you charge the card, please be sure to calculate your trips and match the cash value. It is virtually impossible to get your money back if you lose your card. A round trip from the city center to Zaisan should be covered by MNT 1000.

*If you don't have a card, but urgently need to travel by bus, there is an option to give cash to the bus driver.

*You can pay for several bus trips with a single card. You will need to explain the number of trip to the driver. The driver will make adjustments to the cash machine and let you use the card.

* Beware of pickpockets.

*The bus stations names are in Mongolian. We therefore recommend you to asking for help from other passengers.

It's easier for tourists to find directions based on the bus numbers.

To transit between buses for a discount

1. Re-use the card at the exit door
2. Within the next 30 minutes, take the next bus and use the card at the entry door
3. Re-use the card at the exit door of the transit bus. This will allow you to re-apply this discount within 4 hours that day.

TROLLEYBUS

The price of trolleybus single trip amounts MNT 300. Although trolleybuses are the cheapest form of public transportation, there are comparatively fewer routes compared to the municipal bus. Trolleybuses also accept smart card with U-money sign.

INTERCITY TRANSPORT

Intercity public transportation is available to several provinces/cities via the Songinokhairkhan passenger transport center in the western part of Ulaanbaatar.

Destinations are as follows:

INTERNET

Almost wherever you go in Ulaanbaatar city you can find free Wi-Fi. You just need to ask the Wi-Fi password - that's it. If you are visiting the place they will be happy to tell you the password. But in some public places and peripheral districts there is no free Wi-Fi or only very slow free internet. Also, if you buy a 4G LTE mobile phone SIM card for your phone, you can use internet data everywhere in Ulaanbaatar city. To get this service, your phone needs to work on the Band 3 or 1800Mg frequency.

VAT

VAT at the rate of 10% is imposed on the supply of goods, services, and works imported, exported, and sold in Mongolia.

ATM

You can use your Visa, Master Card, Union Pay, American Express, and JCB cards to take cash from ATMs everywhere in Ulaanbaatar. Also, we have 24 hours 7 days working ATMs in banks such as Khan bank, Golomt bank, and Trade and Development bank.

CITY TOILET

We have public toilets in the streets named "City Toilet". Fee of 200 MNT for each use will be asked. But if you have an emergency situation we recommend you go to malls or shopping centers.

EXCHANGE

If you need to exchange currency you can go to the nearest bank or go to the central trading place located in Tumurchnii Street. Here in Mongolia we used to call it "Naiman sharga". In this currency exchange place, you can exchange your money at a better rate than in commercial banks.

Need to Know

They will exchange the banknotes less than 20 USD with a lesser rate.

No dollars, just Mongolian tugriks
Always use the Mongolian Tugrik, (MNT), when making cash payments.

If you are buying from a market you should always try to negotiate. The price for tourists is often inflated.

Most of the services and offices are open from 9.00am to 10.00pm, but all government agencies operate from 8.00am to 5.00pm. Service centers and restaurants and coffee shops are open from 10.00am to 11.00pm.
